

You are not alone ...

If you've ever had the nagging feeling that maybe the universe is not an accident from a big explosion billions of years ago, you're not alone.

Tens of thousands of scientists with high qualifications in relevant study areas have had the same feeling. But many dare not say what they're thinking.

This is a rare chance to hear one such scientist speak publicly on the scientific evidence that the universe shows all signs of deliberate design and what that means for each and every one of us.
